SOLDIERS' SOCKS FROM HOME- SPUN YARN OVER CENTURY OLD

Was Made One Hundred Years Ago On Farm
Near Charleroi

COLORED WITH NATURAL DYES

A few days ago the Charleroi Chapter of the American Red Cross was the recipient of about fifty pounds of white yarn from Mrs. Van L. Speers, of Speers, Pa., which is now being made up into socks for the use of patients in hospitals abroad.

This yarn is presumed to be about 100 years old. The wool from which it was made was grown on sheep owned by the Rev. William Ward, a pioneer Methodist preacher who lived on the farm on which Twilight borough is now located. The old homestead is still standing, and is in a good state of preservation. The yarn was spun by the older daughters of Mr. Ward, Nancy and Rebecca, aunts of Mrs. Speers, was stored away for the future use of the family.

Families in those days not only spun their own yarn, but likewise colored it with home-made dyes. Mrs. Speers still has in her possession a considerable quantity of the yarn her aunts made, which was colored in several shades of red and blue, the colors being as bright and distinct today as they were when the yarn was made.

Colored yarn was used largely in those times in making carpets. Flax instead of rags was used as the body of the carpet, with the colored yarn to make the various figures. Mrs. Speers still owns the spinning wheel and the cones used by her aunts in making up the yarn, and which she has preserved as a family heirloom. Mrs. Speers has owned the yarn for 22 years, and was glad of an opportunity to donate it to the Red Cross to be made up into articles for the soldiers. She also gave a considerable quantity of yarn colored brown with walnut stain. It is a little darker than the khaki, but will be suitable for use. This yarn still retains the oils which the wool carried with it, while the yarn of today is cleaned of all grease and fats. The yarn was kept in grain sacks, from which it was taken at times to be aired and the sacks washed. It was never molested by moths, but is in as good condition today as when originally spun.

ALLEGED CHICKEN THIEF IS KILLED

Samuel Nitka was shot and killed early Thursday morning at Denbo, by Samuel Wargo. It is alleged that Nitka was attempting to enter the chicken house of Wargo, when he was apprehended. Refusing to throw up his hands, and making a move to attack Wargo, resulted in a shot from a gun in the hands of Wargo, which caused his death.

Wargo immediately awakened the store manager and notified him of the shooting. With others they went to the Wargo home, where Nitka was discovered lying outside the chicken house door. Wargo was released by

NATIONAL GUARD IN CAMP IN TWO WEEKS

It is predicted that the entire National Guard will be in camps to which they have been assigned by the war department within two weeks. The delay in sending the men has been assigned to "practical reasons," but it is believed that everything will be in readiness to provide transportation within a few days, when the troop movements will begin toward the various cantonments.

CAR SUPPLY MAY BE BETTER

Prospects for Next Week
Are Better Than for Some Time

NO CHANGE IN THE PRICE

Commercial coal loaders expect better conditions to prevail next week in the way of car supply. With an accumulation over Sunday and Monday, it is expected there will be quite a number of empties available, which will make it much better for wagon loaders during the coming week than for some time past.

The preference given to lake shipments over local points is said to be seriously affecting the supply of coal at many of the mills, and unless the commercial wants are taken care of, it is feared that some of the mills, particularly in the Youngstown district, will have to close down. This is a condition feared by coal operators as well as mill men ever since the order was issued giving preference to coal shipments to the lakes.

Locally the wagon loaders have been quite busy the past few days, apparently the supply of gondola cars being greater than it has been for some time. Small dealers are hoping there may be a readjustment of price, or at least of conditions, which will make it a little more profitable to mine and ship coal.

BETTER PRICE IS SECURED FOR COAL

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Pittsburgh Coal company, August 30, a revised contract with the United States Steel Corporation, effective on and after February 15, 1917, has been approved and authorized, under which a materially better average price would be secured by the coal company. The Pittsburgh Coal company delivers great quantities of coal by river to the elevators at Duquesne for the use of the corporation. At that point it is transferred to railroad cars and distributed to the various mills.

county authorities on his own recognition, after making an inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the shooting. Coroner Heffran will conduct an inquest.

LOCAL DENTISTS TO JOIN RESERVE CORPS

Dr. Paul Trnavsky and Dr. Shanon R. Blythe, both of Charleroi, have received commissions as First Lieutenants in the Dental Section of the Officers' Reserve Corps of the National Army of the United States. They have not been notified when to report for duty, but both young men are ready to respond as soon as orders are received.

Dr. Trnavsky is a graduate of the Charleroi high school, and of the University of Pittsburgh, dental department, class of 1917, but had not taken up practice in any community. Dr. Blythe is a Charleroi high school and Ohio Northern University man and is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, dental department, class of 1917. Both at Ohio Northern, and at Pitt, where he was Major of the First Battalion, he took military instruction. Both men were prominent in athletics in their school days, as well as in other scholastic affairs. Dr. Blythe has been practicing in Belle Vernon during the summer but will close his office there upon receipt of orders to report for duty.

The good wishes of the entire community will go with these young men when they are summoned to report for duty, which will undoubtedly be to some base hospital in France, should the war be prolonged any length of time.

SON-IN-LAW SERIOUSLY INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Health Officer Darby received word on Friday of the serious condition of his son-in-law, Charles Wilson, of Fairchance, Fayette county, who was injured in an automobile accident on Thursday.

Mr. Wilson had been looking at some coal prospects in Fayette county, some distance from his home, and had hired a man named Nixon to take him over the ground by automobile. On the way back while coming along a mountain road they met another machine. In attempting to pass, the machine in which Mr. Wilson was riding was crowded over an embankment, and both he and Mr. Nixon were seriously injured. Just how serious Mr. Wilson is Mr. Darby is not advised, although a telephone message this morning from the Wilson home in Fairchance said he seemed somewhat improved.

PRODUCTS TEAM LOSES GAME TO OIL CITY

The Pittsburgh Steel base ball team is in Rochester, Pa., today, playing a game with the team of that town. The Steel boys are after revenge for a reverse suffered last year at the hands of the Rochester team.

The Pittsburgh Steel Products team played in Oil City yesterday, but lost a loosely played game by the score of 7 to 3. Rapp was on the mound, while Casey Jones played second base. The Products had 6 hits and 9 errors, of which "Hen" Wilson is charged with 5, something unusual for this old reliable first-sacker. The Oil City team had seven errors.

FIRST DRAFT CONTINGENT WILL MOBILIZE IN CHARLEROI FRIDAY

TAKE STONE AND TIMBER TO LOCK NUMBER TWO

The United States harbor boat Kittington took one barge of timber and one barge of stone from Lock No. 4 to Lock No. 2, Friday evening. They are to be used in making repairs to the dam at the latter place, where the swift river current has done considerable scouring to a portion of the dam.

Twenty-two Men Will Be in the First Squad Sent to Camp

ARE ASKED TO VOLUNTEER

The first contingent of drafted men from the Fifth District of Washington county will be sent to Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, on Friday, September 7th, and will entrain at Charleroi.

These were the orders received on Friday, August 31st, by the exemption board, of which John O. Watson is President. The board had anticipated that the men would assemble in Donora, the headquarters, but for some reason the mobilization point was changed, and Charleroi will have the honor of giving a farewell demonstration to the first contingent of men from this district to be sent to the cantonment in Ohio.

This afternoon the board is mailing notices to one hundred of the men who have been passed, notifying them to be ready to leave for the concentration camp on receipt of mobilization orders, at the same time asking for volunteers for the first contingent. This contingent will consist of 22 men, who will be from the different communities comprising the district, and who will be mobilized in Charleroi and sent to one of the cantonments in Ohio. After the men have been summoned they are under United States military authority, and will be taken care of by the local exemption board until they entrain for camp. Prior to their departure one of the board members will be selected to be the Captain of the squad, who will handle all transportation and meal tickets on the way, and who will report the contingent to the commandant of the cantonment to which they are assigned.

The board is particularly anxious to receive as soon as possible the names of the 22 men who will volunteer to go in the first squad. Of course there will be but little time elapse before other contingents will leave, but there is a certain amount of honor attached to the "First Defenders," and for this reason the board believes there will be but little trouble in securing the necessary number of men.

As Charleroi has been selected as the first mobilization point in the district, the question of a suitable farewell demonstration in honor of these men is up to our citizens. As it is likely that Donora and Monongahela will also have an opportunity later to give similar demonstrations, it is incumbent on our citizens to see there is no lack of patriotic fervor and feeling the day the boys leave for camp. The affair should be arranged for as soon as possible, that the people of the community can be advised of the details.

The board has not been advised as to the time when the men will be required to leave, but this detail will be arranged for and made public later. The hour of departure will depend on railroad transportation.

All Teachers on Hand Ready to Begin Work at Appointed Time

HIGH SCHOOL TO OPEN 8:40

The Charleroi public schools will open Monday, September 3. While this is Labor Day, and generally observed as a holiday, Superintendent Pollock has deemed it advisable to dispose of the preliminary work on that date in order to have everything in readiness for the opening of the real work on Tuesday.

This work will be as follows: All pupils will report to their schools as they were in last term, from where they will be assigned to the room in which they will work for the coming term. Pupils will report from 8:30 to 9 o'clock at all buildings, and after being assigned to rooms for the new term the distribution of books will take place.

A change will be made in the hours for high school. Last year high school sessions began at 8:15 o'clock. This term they will begin at 8:40 a. m.

All of the departments and grades are provided with teachers, all of whom are here ready for the opening of school. Superintendent Pollock anticipates a very successful season, with prospects for an increased attendance over last year.

FIXING THE RATE.

The Brownsville Telegraph is not satisfied with the price of coal as fixed by President Wilson, claiming it is too high and unfair, particularly so because, while he reduced the price of bitumen, he advanced the price of anthracite. Our up-river contemporary says:

"Anthracite coal operators seem to be well satisfied with the prices fixed by the president for their commodity. With one exception, these prices are identical with those quoted by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron company for September 1, 1917. That exception is an increase over the P. R. C. & I rate.

"The company's quotations on pea coal were $3.10, $3.20 and $3.35. The executive order boosted these to $4.10, $4.20 and $4.35, according to grade. "Pea coal has in times past been more or less of a competitor with bituminous. Yet the same authority that increased the value of the holdings of every anthracite coal owner, raised the value of every holder of bituminous.

"It is inexplicable why reasonable men should appraise anthracite pea coal at $4 to $4.35 a ton, 80 cents per ton more than the operators asked for it, and reduce all bituminous, including Connellsville coking coal, which is worth every cent of $3 to $4 a ton at the mines under present conditions, and has been selling among reasonable dealers at such prices to $2.2 a ton.

"Whether the price of anthracite is a fair price or not, it is a price that means to emphasize the illogic, inconsistency and injustice of its price fixing policy, the development of the next few days may disclose."

ARE THEY PACIFISTS?

The women who persist in picketing the White House, and who display banners bearing legends with reference to woman suffrage are coming in for considerable criticism, which seems to grow in intensity as well as volume. This band of women is not recognized by the loyal advocates of woman suffrage, who deplore the undesired publicity which their actions are giving.

In speaking of these women the Independent says: "If the women who persist in picketing the White House and in holding aloft placards intended to embarrass or insult the President were merely sincere fanatics in the cause of suffrage, it would be one thing. Their methods would still be indefensible and their behavior scandalous, but those things might lead to unsound judgment.

"There seems, however, to be good ground for believing that they are assailing the President thus not so much because they are suffragists as because they are pacifists. It is scarcely to be suspected that they are quite as much interested in handicapping the prosecution of the war as in furthering the adoption of the Anthony amendment. If the surmise is correct, the right place for them is in jail. This is a hard thing to bring oneself to say when it refers to women, but when women bring it upon themselves, there is no alternative.

"We are ardent, sincere believers in woman's suffrage. We strongly desire the adoption of the Anthony amendment, not only by Congress, but by the states. We want to see women and men on a basis of political equality. We would sacrifice much for democracy. But unless Germany is defeated here and now, it will go hard with democracy the world over. Those who in the name of democracy strive to hamper forces that are fighting to make the world safe for democracy are false prophets and treacherous to the convictions they profess.

"The little band of wilful women are in a petty and inconsiderable way giving aid and comfort to the enemy. They deserve well neither of their country nor of the cause they misrepresent.

THE FLAG

Is there any reason why the manufacture of the American flag should not be a government monopoly, asks an eastern publication. The Federal Trade Commission, in its report on price manipulation, has let in the light on some of the shabby, meanest profiteers in the country—men who have gone into the business at this opportune time and have pushed the price of flags to a point where their gross profits have been as high as 200 per cent. It is bad enough to watch the tawdry tricks of the little people who trade in patriotism by the promiscuous use of the national emblem to further their own business, but this is worse yet.

Government manufacture, or at least manufacture under government license with strict inspection and price-fixing, would put an end to this ruthless taxation of wholesome patriotic instincts, and would guarantee such standards of quality that the dignity of the flag would be protected. The shabby, dreary rags which hang from thousands of flag-sticks and windows today, their color streaked and faded, would be a thing of the past; the flag would be decently made and decently sold. Save the flag.

If the Kaiser believed that "no gentleman would kill so many women and children," as he told Ambassador Gerard when the Lusitania was sunk, why did he give the perpetrator of the outrage a decoration.

It now looks as if many of the young men who married in haste will not ever be able to repent at leisure owing to the exacting requirements of a military career which they failed to escape.

Happily the food administrator is disposed to be contented with less than was the poet who asked for "a crust of bread with liberty." Mr. Hoover is ambitious for freedom for the citizen to eat a whole loaf at a reasonable price.

The proposed insurance for soldiers and their dependents, in lieu of the old mismanaged pension system, so lamentably corrupted by partisan politics, is opposed by old fogies and pension sharks. This is to be expected. Fresh Bakker especially.

Fresh Bakker has revealed much that has hitherto been unsuspected, including a shortage of physicians.

If disloyal creatures are forced to kiss anything let it be the dust beneath rather than the flag itself. Colored flags won't stand washing.

Treasures of the Tiber's Bed.

Father Tiber must be trembling in his bed over the quest for the gold supposed to lie in the foundations of the old temple of Jove, for the river has more than once been threatened. Lucky holds that its periodical flooding and request of marshes and malaria have been the salvation of Italy in preventing the Italian Parliament, for reasons of health, from sitting long in session. Garibaldi had other views. He meant to dig the old river from Rome to Tivoli, so sent for that prince of engineers, Sir John Fowler. Fowler made the necessary surveys for diversion of the Tiber into the Anio, to canalize the malarial area and drain it into the sea. It would have been a great and romantic feat of engineering, but honest John loved Garibaldi as faithfully as did the red shirted Thousand. "It will cost you nine millions for the work and as much again for compensation. Don't think of it," he bluntly said. "Oh, you stubborn English!" laughed the hero. "Americans here would do the work for nothing merely to get the antiquities in the Tiber bed." But he took Fowler's advice.—London Chronicle.

The Misunderstood Shark.

There seems to be some misunderstanding concerning the way in which sharks attack victims. Some claim that they turn over as they attack so as to bite more readily with their receding underjaw. Others claim, according to the Popular Science Monthly, that they attack head on, swimming to their victim in a straight line. According to J. E. Williamson, whose work in photographing the shark under water for motion picture plays has been notably successful, the "bead-on" description of attack is the correct one. "I can prove by my pictures that a shark does not turn over to bite," states Mr. Williamson. "If a shark wants to pick up anything from the bottom of the sea he goes right down to it as a cat pounces on a bone and picks it up. A shark does not turn over to bite any more than any other fish does."

Dealing in Diamonds.

There is no other form in which human wealth is so compact and so durable as in diamonds. A paper three inches long and an inch and a half wide will hold a king's ransom in a form that a million years will not harm and that not even fire itself, except the heat of the electric furnace and of the Bunsen burner, will destroy. You would think that anything so precious would be hedged about with a host of precautions. Just the opposite is true. Men go into the offices of wholesale diamond dealers, slip packages of uncut stones worth thousands of dollars into their pockets and go away with no record of the transaction except a "memorandum." Half the business of many dealers in precious stones is done by letting goods go out "on memorandum." The one thing that the men in the trade guard more carefully than their diamonds is their credit.—Youth's Companion.

Lions Fear Mice.

Large beasts of prey have a strong antipathy to rats and mice, says the London Tit-Bits. When a mouse was thrown into a cage where there were two lions the animals leaped away, roaring, apparently with fright, and making efforts to get away from the tiny creature. A tiger roared with rage when first introduced to a mouse. Then he lowered his muzzle to smell it, but would have no more to do with it and made violent efforts to break from his cage.

Elephants screamed and trumpeted when mice were introduced, shrinking from them as far as their chains allowed. One elephant, however, more knowing than the rest, when a couple of mice were placed on the ground before him quietly placed his foot on them.

Steel Ships.

Steel ships differ from those of wood in that their hulls are made of steel plates riveted together instead of the old method of using wooden planking. They are enabled to float because, being hollow, they have what is called buoyancy. A steel ship displaces a volume of water equal in weight to its own. The principle of buoyancy may be tested by floating an iron nail in a bathtub full of water.

Sense of Security.

"Do you find that your constituents agree with you?"
"No," replied Senator Sorghum. "But that doesn't cause me any apprehension. If they refuse to be guided, there is plenty of time for me to come around and agree with them."—Washington Star.

Hang Up the Broom.

Brooms should always hang where not in use. Have a hole bored through the handle four inches from the end and large enough to slip over an ordinary nail. When left on the floor a broom soon loses its shape and will not do good work.

Truly Grateful.

Footpad—And now I'll trouble you to take off that suit of clothes. Jones—Thanks awfully. Only for you my wife would have made me wear it for two years more.—Boston Globe.

No Last Word.

"Have you seen Bill's new wife?"
"Yes, and they do say she's the last word in wives."
"Nonsense! There isn't any such thing."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The man with a new idea is a crank until the idea succeeds.—Mark Twain.

FEDERAL CHILD LABOR LAW IN EFFECT TODAY

The new federal child labor law takes effect today. Hereafter no children under 14 may be employed in any factory, mill, workshop, or cannery in the United States whose products are to be shipped by interstate commerce, and no child under 16 may mine or quarry. The working day of children 14 and 15 years of age in factories may not be longer than 8 hours and they may not be employed between 7 p. m. and 6 a. m. The enforcement of the law has been delegated by the Secretary of labor to the children's bureau of the department of labor, and the head of the new child-labor division of that bureau is Miss Grace Abbott, of Chicago.

This Case Has a Hint For Many Mail Readers.

A Charl-roi woman has used Doan's Kidney Pills.

She has found them as representative.

She wishes her neighbors to know. She publicly recommends them.

No need to look further for a tested kidney remedy.

The proof of merit is here and can be investigated.

Profit by the statement of Mrs. Charles Bromwich of 714 Washington avenue, says: "I suffered from a severe attack of kidney trouble. I noticed pain across the small of my back and I had headaches and a constant, tired feeling. Nothing helped me. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a few days, I felt better and I continued their use until I was permanently cured."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Bromwich. Foster-McLean Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 46

GEMS OF TRANSLATION.

Some Crude Spanish Found in American Business Catalogues.

A man who has learned Spanish in Spain picked up one of the numerous American business catalogues that are sent to Latin American countries in alleged Spanish. This is what he read, according to the Pan-American Review: "In an automobile catalogue splendidly issued and richly illustrated, but full of absurdities on account of its sufferable translation. I read this caption at the foot of a magnificent illustration, 'Cinco pasajeros curros para viajando,' just as if we would say in English, 'To traveling car five passengers.' Instead of 'five passenger car for traveling.' In a leather goods catalogue the caption 'Harness for a single horse buggy' is translated into Spanish in this way, 'Harness for a bachelor horse full of bugs.'"

You can find in many hardware or machinery catalogues the most striking translations; for instance, corkscrew for screwdriver, nut for screw, gobble for bolt and hair curl for corkscrew! All of which must spread laughter and sunshine in South America.

Origin of a Popular Hymn.
The following illustration given by D. L. Moody suggests the true origin of P. P. Bliss' hymn, "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning." "A ship on Lake Erie bound for Cleveland harbor was overtaken by a storm, and as they neared the port the pilot could only see the upper light—the light from the lighthouse streaming to them through the storm and darkness. The lower lights were not burning. The pilot could not see how to steer into the harbor. It was impossible to sail back again upon the lake. The ship had to go forward, and for the want of the lower lights along the shore the vessel now at the mercy of the huge, roaring waves, was dashed to pieces on the rocks, and many of the crew perished before help could reach them." Bliss was associated in those early days with D. L. Moody in Christian work and he must have heard Mr. Moody use this illustration, which gives a beauty to its meaning."—Christian Herald.

BURIED BELLS OF NAKOVS.

Nature's Curious Freak on the Border of the Red Sea.

A singular phenomenon occurs on the borders of the Red sea at a place called Nakovs, where intermittent underground sounds have been heard for an unknown number of centuries. It is situated about half a mile distant from the shore, where a long row of sand mounds reach to a height of 200 feet. This reach is about eighty feet high and resembles an amphitheater being washed by low tides.

The sounds coming up from the ground at this place occur at intervals of about an hour. They at first resemble a low humming, but are long there is heard a loud knocking somewhat like the strokes of a bell, which at the end of about five minutes becomes so strong as to shake the sand.

The explanation of this curious phenomenon given by the Arabs is that there is a convent under the ground here and that these sounds are those of the bell which the monks ring for prayers. So they call it Nakovs, which means a bell. The Arabs affirm that the noise so frightens their camels when they hear it as to render them furious.

Scientists attribute the sound to suppressed volcanic action, probably to the bubbling of gas or vapors under ground.

WHEN WOMEN FISH.

It Makes the Trip Such a Jolly and Enjoyable One.

It does not serve to mellow a man's disposition to take a woman or two into the boat when he goes bass fishing. For women always want to fish, yet never could they or would they catch those horrid, nasty, "triggling" angleworms on the hook.

So, between baiting their hooks and removing the perch and pumpkin seeds and straining your spine to keep the boat from turning turtle and the lines from getting snarled up, you have a most enjoyable day's outing. Do you not? Yes, you do not! I'll run the risk of answering that question for you.

And then, when you finally hook a five pound bass weighing at least three pounds and eight ounces by his own standard scales, and play him for twenty minutes against their earnest entreaties not to bring that big, ugly thing into the boat or else they'd jump out—you calmly ease up on the line and give him back, also his freedom, do you not? Yes, you do not!

And when the day is spent they tell you what a gorgeous time they have had and make you promise to fetch them again, and you promise, of course, do you not?—Cartoons Magazine.

Gasoline Poison.

The poisonous character of the fumes arising from a gasoline engine may be appreciated by the following extract from a recently published book: "If a gasoline engine producing five cubic feet of CO per minute were allowed to run in a tightly closed garage that was twelve feet high, fifteen feet long and fifteen feet wide—that is, having a capacity of 2,700 cubic feet—it could produce an atmosphere, if the latter were thoroughly mixed containing about 1 per cent CO in about five minutes. This percentage of CO in air is a fatal proportion and would probably kill a person in less than a minute. In fact, an exposure for as long as twenty minutes to an air containing as little as 0.25 per cent CO would make most people very ill."

Burns That Kill.

Burns are generally classified in three degrees of severity. First degree burns are simple reddening of the skin. Second degree burns result in blistering. Third degree burns are followed by actual destruction of the skin and tissues.

Death is almost certain to result if approximately one-third of the body surface is burned. Often burns of much less extent are fatal. Death may result from shock, from acute kidney, liver or blood disease resulting from the toxins of the burned skin, or the burns may later become infected and kill the patient from blood poison.

Educate the People.

Illiteracy is one of the problems with which the American people are confronted. There should be a pressure of public opinion and of public effort brought to bear to wipe out the disgrace. Each community should see to it that every child of school age is under instruction. Increased efforts to induce those of adult age to enter night schools should be made.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Wild Pigeons.

Until little more than fifty years ago the most abundant bird in North America was the wild pigeon (Ectopistes migratorius). It moved in immense flocks calculated not by thousands, but by millions, and it is not known today if a single pair of this native American bird is alive.

FAMOUS PAINTINGS.

There Are Three Undisputed Mantegna's in This Country.

Andrea Mantegna, the brilliant master of the Paduan school (1431-1506) was distinguished among the Italian masters of the renaissance by a plastic style which made his figures of canvas not so much an expression of paint as of carved marble or molded bronze.

Of all the painters of his time he was generally regarded by critics as being most sensitive to the beauty of rounded form as distinct from outline. Mantegna died in Mantua in poverty, due not to lack of appreciation, but to his own extravagance.

The works painted by Mantegna apart from his frescoes and the tempera pictures of the "Triumph of Caesar," now hanging in Hampton Court, are not numerous. Authorities seem to agree that not more than thirty-five of the so-called Mantegna's now extant are to be accepted as authentic.

In America there are only three undisputed Mantegna's. One is the "Adoration of the Magi," belonging to the John S. Johnson collection in Philadelphia; another is the "Madonna and Child" of the Altman collection in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the third is the "Madonna and Child" of Mrs. Jack Gardner's collection in Boston.—New York Times.

INVESTING MONEY.

What One Bank Has to Say About Real Estate Mortgages.

The president of one of the numerous savings banks of New York city recently had occasion to resort to statistics to prove his contention that real estate mortgage investments made with intelligence, knowledge of conditions and conservatism were the safest form of investment. His request of clerks for figures brought forth the fact that in the last thirty years his bank had lent upon real estate security the enormous sum of $90,000,000 and that a loss of but $35,000 in round figures was incurred in this manipulation during all these years.

Thus the bank has invested of depository funds at the rate of $3,000,000 annually, receiving an average of 5 per cent, or $150,000, in interest and paying its depositors an average of 4 per cent, or $120,000, leaving a balance for the bank of $30,000 annually. Against this surplus there is the comparatively insignificant charge of $1,500 a year less during a period of thirty years.

This record, significant of the not only safe but profitable business in mortgages, is that of one of the smaller banks in the savings group of New York city.—New York Post.

An Astronomical Mirror.

One of the most remarkable scientific instruments yet devised is that constructed by Professor R. W. Wood to aid the work of astronomers. This is an astronomical mirror, the reflecting surface of which is revolving mercury elaborately protected against vibrations, and it magnifies in proportion to the speed of its revolutions. A metallic dish containing mercury and turning on bearings carries on its edge a series of magnets. Encircling, but not touching them, is an iron ring. By motor power this ring is made to revolve upon bearings separate from those of the mercury container, but its magnets, attracting those on the container's edge, cause the latter also to revolve. Centrifugal force compels the mercury to form a concave surface, perfect so long as free from jars. This apparatus is sunk in a well fourteen feet deep and set upon a solid foundation to eliminate all ordinary shocks.

Why the Owl Is a Night Bird.

Birds are often credited with bringing down fire from heaven. In Polynesia it was a red pigeon, in French folklore the wren. The tale runs that all the other birds except the owl contributed a single feather apiece to replace the scorched plumage of the wren, so as to keep it warm in the coming winter. For its ill nature the owl was condemned to eternal seclusion during the warm day and to perpetual suffering from cold during the night, and the other birds maintain the punishment by pecking it if it appears in sunshine.—London Lancet.

A "CONTRIBUTION" TO PEACEMAKERS

The People's Council for Peace woke up the wrong passenger when it asked Earl Dorr Bigger of Boston, the well known novelist, for a contribution. It received the following reply:

"I am delighted to get your letter and to know that you are facing financial difficulties in carrying out your disloyal and treasonable program for an immediate and therefore a German peace. I hope that these difficulties will daily increase, so that in the end the plans you are laying to rise, like snakes from the grass, and strike in the back the brave men who are going abroad to fight for the democracy you are seeking to betray, may come to naught."

"My delight in receiving your letter was somewhat tempered, however, by the fact that in it you address me as 'Dear Member.' Just what have I ever done to deserve an insult like that? Why should you take it for granted that I, like yourselves, as an ally of the Kaiser? What grounds have you for believing that I join you in your fervent desire, fostered by German influence, to see the war end with Germany unpunished for the brutal and premeditated attack on the peace and happiness of the world—to see it and with Germany still powerful and unrepentant, and able to repeat, amid the blood and tears of our children, its dastardly act?"

I have read the statements in your circulars, printed, not without good reason, on yellow paper. Your appeal to all that is base and ignoble in man—you even appeal to his belly. With the picture of Belgium will prostrate before you, you urge Americans to end the war promptly lest their stomachs be somewhat contracted. Your methods are beneath contempt. You will fail, for the ancient spirit that built this country is not dead. The activities of the cowards and the Kaiser-lovers may obscure it for a moment, but it will flame out again. The most you can hope for is to drive Russia from the war, as Charles Edward Russell has pointed out, and thereby sacrifice the lives of thousands of American soldiers. But do not be alarmed. You can accomplish this wholesale murder without having to face any personal danger whatever.

"Yes you will fail; darker days than those which now seem to perturb you will come along. And I shall always be glad to hear about them. When things look blackest for you be sure and write me all about it. I shall be very happy to get such letters. But if you ever address me as 'Dear Brother' again I shall be inclined to sue you for libel."

Potato Bread Rolls.

"Every pound of vegetables properly put up for future use, every jar of fruit preserved, add that much to our insurance of victory."—President Wilson.

Potato bread rolls, delicious and appetizing, are suggested as a substitute for the wheat rolls served at the breakfast table in today's bulletin of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, with which this paper is cooperating to conserve the nation's food resources.

Potato bread rolls are made from the same mixture as potato bread by adding shortening and sugar. The following proportions will yield one dozen small rolls: Eight ounces of loiled and peeled potatoes; 6 ounces of sifted flour; 1-3 cake of compressed yeast; 3-4 level teaspoonful of salt; 2 tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water; 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar; 2 tablespoonfuls of butter.

Wash thoroughly and boil in their skin the potatoes. Cook until they are very tender. Drain, peel and mash them while hot, being careful to leave no lumps. Allow mashed to cool until lukewarm. Add, in order, to this the salt, the powdered milk (if used), the yeast rubbed smooth and mixed with water, and lastly two tablespoonfuls of flour. Let this mixture stand at a temperature of 86 degrees F until dough begins to collapse. Add to this sponge the butter, the sugar and the remainder of the flour, and, if necessary, enough more flour to make a very stiff dough. Knead thoroughly until a smooth dough, which is no longer sticky, has been formed. Set back to rise again, and when dough has trebled in volume knead lightly, form into small balls and place, not too close together, in greased pans. Allow to rise until double in volume and bake 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven at about 400 degrees F.
